Welcome to Katmai Lodge!

Arrival

Your personalized service begins the moment you step off the plane at Katmai when you are welcomed by your professional guide and our hospitable staff.

Tour and Orientation

During a brief tour and orientation, staff will check you into rooms and issue fishing licenses.

Welcome Buffet Lunch

Enjoy a hearty welcome brunch in the dining room before your day of fishing.

Itinerary and Gear

Your expert guide will provide an overview of daily activities and the needed gear for fishing the scenic Alagnak River. Ask your guide about fly-outs. The lodge-based 10-passenger turbine De Havilland Otter floatplane is available for fly-out fishing trips or bear viewing excursions to Brooks Falls in Katmai National Park. These trips can be arranged prior to, or upon your arrival at the lodge.

Social Happy Hour

Exchange stories and bragging rights with guests during the complimentary happy hour offering appetizers, beer, wine, and soft drinks served in the main lodge between the hours of 5 - 7 p.m.

Meals

Delicious meals are prepared daily and included throughout your stay at the lodge.

- Breakfast is cooked to order and is served from 6-8 a.m. every morning.
- Lunch. Typically enjoyed on the river. Your guide will ask what you prefer to eat the day prior.
- Dinner. Relax at dinner time with a great selection from a buffet style dinner at 7 p.m. Wine is served with meals. If you prefer, a selection of well drinks is available for purchase. For preferred spirits we may not have in our bar selection, you are welcome to bring it with you on the trip. Water in Alaska is safe and delicious on tap. In addition, bottled water is offered to guests.

Tips for the lodge support staff are pooled. This includes kitchen, housekeeping, and maintenance.

Plane Travel Information

Katmai Lodge is located 300 air miles southwest of Anchorage in the Bristol Bay drainage, on the Alagnak River, the only designated trophy fishing river in Alaska. The closest commercial airport is in the town of King Salmon, located 30 miles south of the lodge. We have our own air strip for easy access in and out of the lodge.

Lodge Accessible by Charter

Katmai Lodge is not accessible by road, only by the lodge's direct charter or transfer through King Salmon.

Please read the information below for travel information.

IMPORTANT: Transfer days to and from the lodge are Saturdays and Wednesdays. Unscheduled transfer days can be arranged if necessary and subject to additional charges.

Scheduling your arrival to Anchorage

When planning your trip to Katmai Lodge, schedule an arrival date to Anchorage for the night prior to your reservation date. For example, Katmai reservation date is August 10th, so arrive in Anchorage August 9th. In this Trip Planning Guide, you will find a list of Anchorage hotels with airport shuttle services.

Departing Katmai Lodge

If you are departing Anchorage for home the same day you depart the lodge please schedule your flight out of Anchorage after 4 p.m. Weather (fog) delays are not uncommon in the area. This will avoid the chance of missing your connection home.

*There is no fishing on the day of your departure. ****

Direct Charter from Anchorage

On most Saturdays and Wednesdays, the lodge offers convenient direct charters from Anchorage to and from the lodge.

Chartered services typically depart Anchorage between 9 - 10 a.m. If charter flights are not available, you will be routed to King Salmon airport (via a commercial airline) where you will be met for transfer to the lodge.

Flights from King Salmon

If you prefer to make your own flight reservations through King Salmon, or other direct charter, please notify Katmai reservations at 1-800-330-0326 prior to booking your flight to help prevent delays.

Should you prefer to travel this way, please schedule flights into King Salmon arriving at or before 10a.m. On your day of departure, schedule your flight out of King Salmon after 12pm.

We apologize in advance should there be a wait time at King Salmon Airport when transferring to and from the lodge. The lodge tries to keep the wait to a minimum; however, we combine arrival and departure times into one flight to and from the lodge. Outside the times of 9:30 a.m. – 1 p.m., you may incur extra charges.

Packing for the Trip

- Keep total luggage weight to 50lbs or less, including carry-on and checked bags. This works well with airline regulations as well as with the charter and lodge aircraft.
- If you check your bag, pack a second set of clothing, medications and toiletries in a carry-on bag, in case of lost luggage. Katmai Lodge is in a remote area, it's always better to be prepared.
- Pack all travel documents.

Fishing Gear

The lodge furnishes all rods (fly, spin, and spey), reels, lures, and tackle. If you prefer to use your own equipment, please feel free to bring it.

Katmai Lodge has waders and boots available for usage at no additional cost to guests. Guests are welcome to use their own. Please note that felt soled boots are banned in Alaska.

Should you wish to use Katmai Lodge's equipment during your stay, please specify size and preferences on your guest registration.

Please note, firearms are prohibited. Thank you.*

Taking Fish Home

We know most of our guests like to take salmon home. In late June and July, you may take one 50lb. fish box which can include 1 adult male King, plus Sockeye, Chum or Pinks (even year runs). Beginning August 1, your 50lb. box can include Chum, Pinks (even year runs) and Silvers.

The Alagnak River system is in the only designated trophy trout fishery in Alaska. It and all other areas where we fish are single hook, no bait or scent. Rainbow Trout are all catch and release. We practice strict catch and release on all other native stream fish as well i.e.: Grayling, Arctic Char, Dolly Varden.

With these policies and by promoting catch and release, we can help ensure that salmon runs along the Alagnak River continue to remain strong. Fish fillets are vacuum sealed, frozen and packed in airline approved waxed boxes.

For extended layovers or overnights in Anchorage, cold storage is available at the airport and at many hotels. Below, you will find airport storage information.

Things to Do in Anchorage

(Information provided subject to change and based on online resources.)

Alaska Native Heritage Center- Northeast Anchorage

WHAT YOU WILL SEE AND EXPERIENCE

The Alaska Native Heritage Center is a premier cultural center sharing the rich heritage of Alaska's 11 major cultural groups. Visitors experience Alaska native culture first-hand through engaging storytelling, authentic native song and dance, artist demonstrations, native games demonstrations and more. Unique opportunities to interact and participate create an enlightening educational experience for young and old alike.

Inside

The Gathering Place is center stage for Alaska Native dancing, compelling Native games demonstrations and intriguing storytelling.

The Hall of Cultures features exhibits and demonstrating Alaska Native artists. Visitors discover more about each of the five major culture groups through engaging exhibits. Alaska Native craft activities will keep the children entertained.

The Theatre hosts a variety of movies all day, including the Heritage Center produced film, "Stories Given, Stories Shared;" This introductory film offers an opportunity to learn about the many different cultures of Alaska Native people, its beautiful landscape and climates all highlighted from each of the regions in Alaska.

Outside

Guests stroll through six authentic life-sized Native dwellings situated in a wooded area around beautiful Lake Tiulana and are introduced to the traditional life ways of the Athabascan, Inupiaq/St. Lawrence Island Yupik, Yup'ik/Cup'ik, Aleut, Alutiiq, and the Eyak, Tlingit, Haida and Tsimshian peoples. Each village site has a traditional structure along with artifacts that each group used in their daily lives. Make sure to see the whale bones at the Inupiaq site; a favorite spot for picture-taking. Visit with the culture representatives in each village site.

Guided village site tours are at 10:15, 12:15, 2:00 and 3:30.

Earthquake Park

Anchorage seen from Earthquake Park

Earthquake Park is a local Anchorage Municipal Park that came into existence as the result of the 1964 Good Friday earthquake when Anchorage and surrounding areas was rocked by this 9.2 magnitude quake. The Cook Inlet bluffs surrounding this park was lifted and sunk in excess of 30 feet during this time and destroyed much of the area.

Today, the park carries monuments and reader boards filled with much information about this quake and the Tony Knowles Coastal Trails winds its way throughout. By park standards it may not seem like much, but it is a great place to learn about Anchorage's history. The park also offers beautiful views of the Anchorage city skyline nestled below the Chugach range.

Directions: Take West Northern Lights to Aircraft Dr. Park at pullout. The monument is along the trail looking out over the water.

Portage Glacier – 1 Hour South of Anchorage

Portage Lake was created behind the terminal moraine of Portage Glacier as it began receding. Burns Glacier, a hanging glacier, is visible in the middle distance; Portage Glacier is hidden behind the outcropping to the right of Burns Glacier.

Where is the Glacier?

Portage Glacier may be hard to see but it's much easier to see where it has been. In the last few years the glacier face has begun retreating from the lake it created. A small section in the center has exposed bedrock but much of the glacier face is still in the water and extends down more than 100 feet into Portage Lake. Portage Glacier is still considered a valley glacier. Nearby are several "hanging glaciers" that is glaciers that come part way down a mountainside.

The first stop at Portage Glacier should be the Begich-Boggs Visitor Center, which contains several exhibits as well as a highly recommended film about glaciers: "Voices from the Ice."

A walk along the shore of the lake to see icebergs up close may be the next stop. To see the glacier though, it's necessary to drive further along the lake to a sightseeing boat dock and buy a ticket for a cruise through the lake that takes visitors close to the glacier face.

Exit Glacier - 2 Hours South of Anchorage

About Exit Glacier

Exit Glacier area is the only part of Kenai Fjords National Park accessible by road. Here you can walk right up to an active glacier, explore the trails and witness up- close how glaciers reshape the landscape.

A network of short trails leads to different views of Exit Glacier, beginning at the Exit Glacier Nature Center and the parking lot. There is a well-maintained trail to the Edge of the Glacier. This moderately strenuous trail brings you near a wall of blue ice providing the most dramatic close-up view of Exit Glacier.

The Exit Glacier Nature Center is open daily from Memorial Day weekend through Labor Day.

Hours: 9 a.m.-8 p.m.

No Fee

Directions:

Follow the Seward Highway (AK-1) south from Anchorage. It will become AK-9 around mile 35 (87 miles from Anchorage) with AK-1 heading to Homer and Kenai. Continue AK-9 to Seward. Turn right on to Herman Leirer Road, commonly called "Exit Glacier Road" at mile 3 of the Seward Highway - AK-9. Proceed 8.4 miles. The road will end at the parking lot for the nature center.

Alaska Wildlife Conservation Center - 1 hour south of Anchorage

The Alaska Wildlife Conservation Center is a non-profit organization dedicated to preserving Alaska's wildlife through conservation, public education, and quality animal care. AWCC takes in injured and orphaned animals year-round and provides spacious enclosures and quality animal care.

Animals that cannot be released into the wild are given a permanent home at the center. Come be a part of these exciting programs and watch these animals display their natural, "wild" behavior. Coyotes peer out from behind the brush while a bald eagle swoops in on the salmon remains left by a grizzly bear. Wood Bison plod through 65 acres of tidal flat terrain, as part of a program that will one day restore the species to the Alaska wilderness.

AWCC has provided care for hundreds of displaced animals because visitors have made critical contributions in the form of admission fees, donations, memberships, and gift shop purchases. AWCC encourages you to visit the center with your walking shoes and camera in hand for an educational Alaska experience to remember.

Dining in King Salmon

Eddie's Fireplace Inn

Good comfort food. Pure outback Alaska with a grizzly yarn-spinning clientele, friendly wait staff and a straightforward no-nonsense menu that never strays too far from burgers and fried fish. It's just about what you would expect from a bar/restaurant in a little fishing town like this. It's a tradition to have a beer and/or lunch. Just down and across from the airport.
